THE SHAPE

Ninety minutes, same every week

MINUTES	SEGMENT	WHAT HAPPENS
5	Segue	One personal and one business win each. Nothing about work in progress
5	Scorecard	Read the numbers. On track or off. No discussion here
5	Rocks	Each quarterly priority: on track or off track
5	Headlines	One line each on affiliates, customers and partners
5	To-do list	Last week's to-dos: done or not done
60	Issues, solved	The whole point of the meeting
5	Wrap	New to-dos, who tells whom, rate the meeting out of ten

Starts on time, ends on time, same agenda every week. The discipline is what makes it work.

ISSUES

Identify, discuss, solve

- 1. Identify. Name the real issue rather than the symptom. "Affiliates are not posting" is a symptom; "nobody sees the format of the week" may be the issue.
- 2. Discuss. Everybody speaks once before anybody speaks twice.
- 3. Solve. A decision, an owner and a date. Anything without those three is not solved.

List every issue first, then pick the three most important and solve those properly. Ten issues discussed and none closed is a wasted meeting.

PREPARATION

Before Wednesday

- Your scorecard numbers, actual, not estimated.
- Your Rock status in one word.
- Your to-dos marked done or not done.
- Your issues, written as issues rather than complaints.
- Your batched questions from the week.

RULES

What keeps it honest

- Not done is a normal answer. Explaining around it wastes the room.
- A to-do is due within one to two weeks. Anything longer is a Rock.
- Ninety percent of to-dos should be done each week. Below that, the team is taking on too much.
- Rate the meeting at the end. Anything under eight gets one sentence on why, which is how the meeting improves.
